

Movies that won an Oscar and how they rank in worldwide gross. There is no correlation between how much a movie makes and that movie winning an Oscar. Beginners is one of the least grossing movies even though it had the best supporting actor.

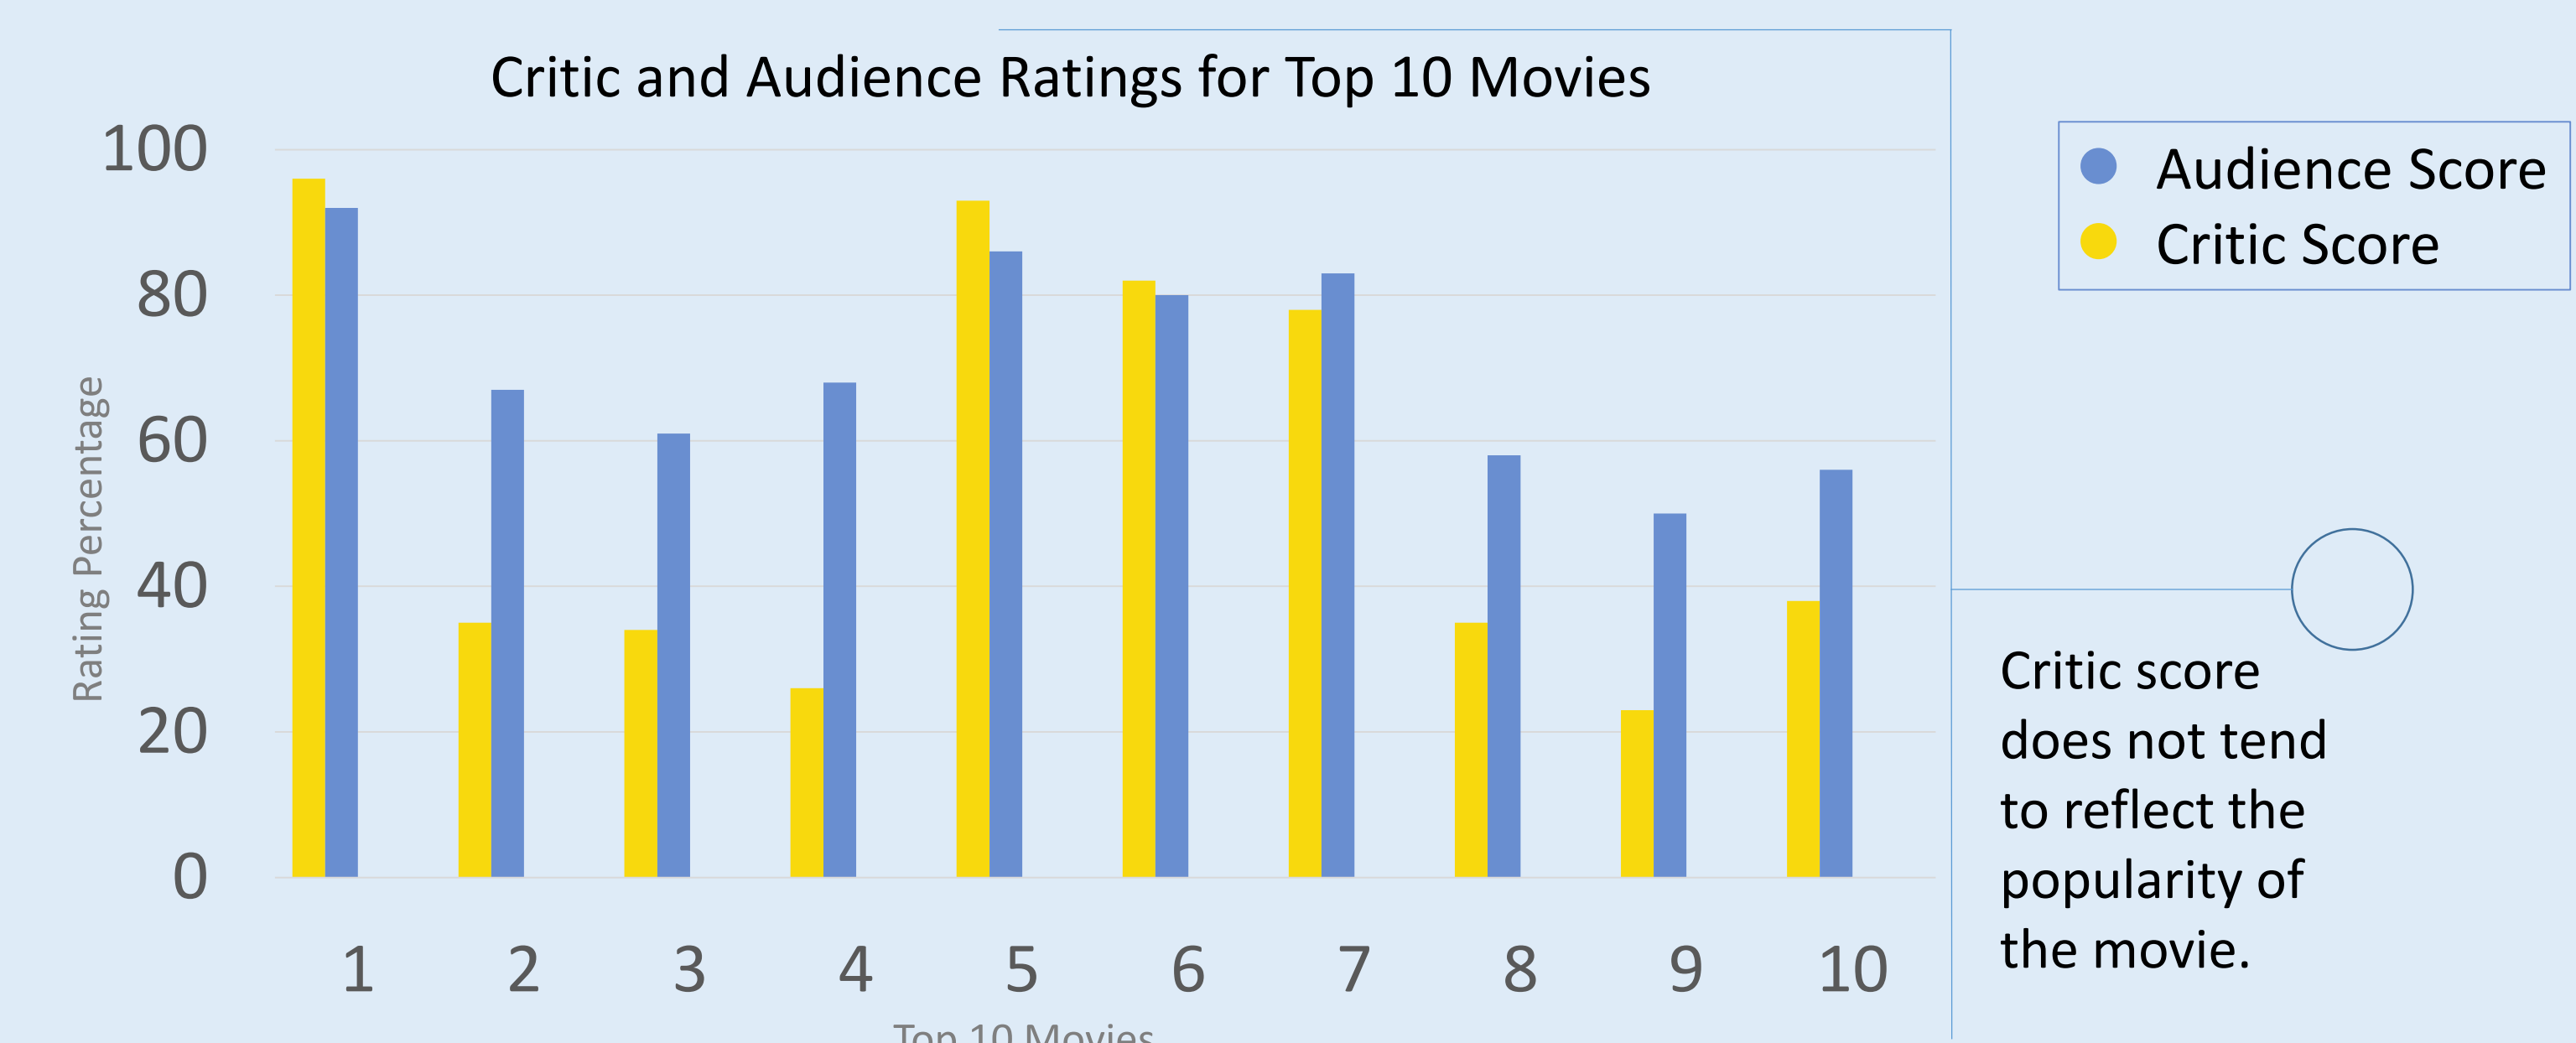

Action and Comedy are the most widely produced movie genres. Only 1% of movies made were Fantasy, however the top grossing movie was Fantasy. The pie chart shows that Action and Comedy make up nearly half of the movies produced over the year.

Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2 was the top grossing movie of the year.

Data
The data was provided by www.informationisbeautiful.com, which used the following sources: www.TheNumbers.com, www.BoxOfficeMojo.com, www.IMDB.com, www.rottentomatos.com. Data given covered the years from 2007 to 2013. We chose 2011 because it had the most complete data.

Critic score does not tend to reflect the popularity of the movie.

